Nǐ Hǎo STEP INTO CHINATOWN

What was once the first Chinese Opera House on the East Coast now houses contemporary Chinese restaurant, Chinese Tuxedo, and intimate cocktail bar, Opera House.

The split-level space was the headquarters for Chinatown's notorious Tong wars in the early 1900's and has been thoughtfully restored, incorporating midcentury touches while retaining historical details such as the original pillars, stripped-down walls and now-sealed secret tunnel entryways.

The kitchen executes a flavorful, eclectic Chinese Banquet style menu complemented by inventive cocktails, a dynamic wine list and a selection of Chinese and American craft beers.

5 Doyers Street is comprised of two unique spaces Chinese Tuxedo and Opera House. Each venue can be booked separately or together for private events. We host everything from seated dinners to speakeasy-style cocktail parties, or a consider a combination of both to create one beautiful memorable evening for you and your guests.

THE COCKTAIL BAR BENEATH CHINESE TUXEDO

NEW YORK'S FIRST CHINESE THEATRE WAS SITUATED AT THIS ADDRESS FROM 1893 UNTIL 1911. OPERA HOUSE IS INSPIRED BY, AND CELEBRATES THIS HISTORY. EACH DRINK TAKES ITS NAME FROM AN ICONIC CHINESE OPERA, EACH INSPIRED BY FOLKTALES, AND ANCIENT LITERATURE, BACKED BY THE KITCHEN OF CHINESE TUXEDO FOR AN IMMERSIVE BLEND OF PAST AND PRESENT.

Chinese Tuxedo is our venue's largest standalone dining and reception space. The sunken dining room boasts 15-foot ceilings and is furnished with cozy banquettes, Carrara marble tables, and a striking sculpture by artist John Duff. The room is thoughtfully adorned with palm trees, candles, and fully-restored original walls dating back 100 years.

This versatile space is perfect for lively, upscale private and corporate events. It can be cleared of furniture to create a grand space for a cocktail reception and dance floor, or you can leave the furniture in place to enjoy a curated, Chinese-inspired banquet dinner. When exclusively booking Chinese Tuxedo, you'll have access to the bar, mezzanine and Moon Room, offering additional space for your event.
