

Stretch  Tent

Stretch tents for outdoor events

A guide for event planners and venue partners

What is a stretch tent?

Flexible fabric takes shape through tension, poles and anchored edges.

The canopy adapts to your venue and event layout.

Why planners choose them

European garden luxury
Sculptural curves and soft light.

An intimate, adaptable space
Shaped around your venue.

Rain cover & sun shade
Comfort for outdoor celebrations.

Installation and logistics

Benefit	What it means for your event
Faster setup	No rigid roof frame to assemble.
Lighter kit	Fabric and poles replace a bulky roof frame.
Simpler transport	Compact packing reduces transport space.
Cost efficiency	Less hardware can reduce crew and logistics costs.

Setup time and cost depend on size, access and anchoring.

Open canopy

All four sides stay raised, keeping the space open to the surrounding venue.

For ceremonies, dining, cocktails or a lounge.

Lowered edge

Lowered sides create a sheltered space with one broad entrance.

For private dining or a lounge.

Venue-adjacent

A large canopy extends the venue into a covered terrace or courtyard.

For receptions, dinners and additional guest space.

Linked canopies

Joined canopies expand the covered area.

Combine dining, lounge and reception zones within one event.

Stretch  Tent

Stage canopy

Cover the DJ booth or live stage, with audience space outside.

Sound and lighting follow your production plan.

Dining beneath the canopy

An open canopy for a seated wedding reception.

Tables and suspended lights frame the celebration.

Dinner and atmosphere

Warm lighting reveals the canopy curves and creates an intimate dinner setting.

Linen, flowers and candlelight complete the atmosphere.

Dance floor and sound

A dedicated space for dancing beneath the canopy.

DJ position, speaker coverage and lighting planned around the dance floor.

A lounge for wedding guests

Soft seating and low tables give guests a place to relax.

A lounge alongside the main reception.

Backyard parties

A canopy for dining or cocktails beside the home.

Open sides connect the party to the garden.
